

Class Actions & Multi-District Litigation

Our class action and MDL attorneys have defended public and private organizations across the country. Our team of more than 75 skilled attorneys, paralegals and litigation support personnel handle matters from class consumer product liability and consumer disclosure claims to environmental, insurance, healthcare, and employment wage and hour disputes.

We utilize leading case management technology to guide clients through every phase of the process, including litigating class certification, conducting class and merits discovery, litigating the merits, negotiating settlements, navigating the court approval and notice process, and handling appeals involving class certification and related issues.

As a result of our multi-disciplinary and multi-office approach, we are able to seamlessly deploy the right team of litigators to handle the unique challenges of MDL and state and Federal class actions. With offices throughout California as well as those in Texas, Washington and the District of Columbia, we advise clients at the state and national level. We have successfully handled actions in the financial services, manufacturing, consumer products, healthcare, and environment and land use sectors.
