

COVID-19 & CARES Act

Today, tomorrow and beyond. The COVID-19 pandemic is creating a great deal of uncertainty. In this emerging "new normal," companies and governmental agencies are facing unique internal and external challenges. To help, we have assembled a cross-disciplinary team of attorneys, policy advisors and professional staff to assist you in this unprecedented legal and business environment.

Our COVID-19 Response Team is comprised of individuals from our public sector, healthcare, transportation, energy and natural resources industry groups. They are working with clients to tackle the workforce, regulatory, contractual, and other hurdles they face. As information becomes available and guidance evolves, we are providing regular updates here.

THE CARES ACT

In the midst of the current public health crisis and economic upheaval, the federal government is offering aid in the form of the CARES Act. Given the number of opportunities the CARES Act provides, we are offering guidance on eligibility requirements, potential benefits, the application process and other facets of the Act. Our CARES Act Team is committed to keeping abreast of the legislation and accompanying regulations as the Act takes shape.
