

California's April 1 Deadline to File Statements of Economic Interests Retroactively Extended to June 1, 2020

04.03.2020 | By Amber R. Maltbie, Frederick T. Dombo III

2019 Annual Statements of Economic Interests are now due June 1, 2020, rather than April 1st, according to a unanimous decision of the California Fair Political Practices Commission at a special meeting held April 2nd.

Finding that the COVID-19 pandemic is a “crippling disaster” that impairs the regulated community’s ability to comply with the regular reporting deadline, the extension provided in Emergency Regulation § 18720 is applicable to:

- County supervisors
- District attorneys
- County counsels
- County treasurers
- County chief administrative officers
- County planning commissioners
- Members of city councils
- Mayors
- City managers
- City attorneys
- City treasurers
- City chief administrative officers

- City planning commissioners
- Public officials who manage public investments
- Public employees designated by a conflict of interest code
